

bitvoodoo apps pricing 2019 (valid from February 15, 2019)

Over the past few years, bitvoodoo has invested heavily in the development of our apps for Confluence and Jira. We have designed and delivered new requested features and product improvements to add more value for you, the administrators, end-users, and larger enterprise teams, at fair prices.

All of these improvements have led to increased demand for product support to keep things running smoothly in the increasingly complex Atlassian environment. We've invested heavily in technical knowledge by increasing our team size and are still growing. We continue to drive our product development and maintenance to the highest levels of service.

To support these efforts, a price increase has become necessary. Please find below the new pricing, effective from February 15, 2019.
